

EXECUTIVE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

Facing the Future – Turning Retirement into Opportunity (Tailored Executive Programme for Prospective Retirees)

Inevitably, people have to retire from permanent employment, often because they reached the mandatory age to do so or out of choice. However, retirement can mark the beginning of a new chapter or an agonising confrontation with an uncertain future. Studies in Nigeria, for example, reveal that most people dread the thoughts of retirement because of “fear of the unknown and possible social isolation by relatives”. Similarly, it is estimated that about 40 per cent of the global workforce is scared of retirement. This situation is made more difficult by the realities of life in the 21st Century, especially with fast developing technology and ever-increasing public pressure for higher standards of quality.

Retirement, however, need not become a source of fear. Indeed it can be turned into a huge opportunity for an even better life: one that is full of interesting things and which offers exciting prospects to explore and pursue new areas of professional attractions. There are far more options open to prospective retirees than is often realized. But they have to plan ahead. Equally, they must approach their retirement as a gradual process, driven by good knowledge, effective skills and practical tools to identify and develop ideas into opportunity. This programme is designed to address these varied issues and help prospective retirees take full control of their future.
